With the rapid rise in price for Melbourne homes over the past 5-7 years, more and more Melburnians have gained a lot of equity in their home and are just now starting to realise that refinancing their mortgage to access this equity makes sense.

If you suddenly have 100-200K equity in your home you can now afford to buy that investment property, go on that overdue holiday or do major renovations at home.

Refinancing your home loan can be a tricky and tangled web nowadays with the myriad of home loan products available. That's why it just makes sense to use a finance broker from Frankston.

Frankston Finance Broker

The MFAA, or Mortgage & Finance Association of Australia, states that over half the home loans written in Australia are performed by a finance broker.

The reason why homeowners are using a finance broker is because they have access to upwards of 30 money lenders with which to choose a loan. Banks, Credit Unions and other money lenders all have different loan products at different rates over different time frames.

A finance broker will sort through them all and select the right finance loan for you at the best refinance rates for you and your circumstances.
